2013 NYC Guide

Navigation

Making your way through the streets of New York has never been easier thanks to these navigational apps, which provide detailed street and subway maps, transit information, the best corners for hailing a taxi and more.

CabSense NYC

Use with: Android and iPhone, iPad and iPod Touch

CabSense NYC analyzes data from the New York City Taxi and Limousine Commission and other sources to help users find the best nearby street corners to hail a taxi based on the day of the week, the time and their location. The app even comes with a built-in "cab hailer"—simply shake your phone and it will whistle and display a flashing message.

Exit Strategy

Use with: iPhone, iPad and iPod touch, Android and Blackberry

Don't waste time mentally calculating which subway car door will bring you closer to the exit at your destination—this app does it for you. In addition, Exit Strategy provides detailed maps of the entire subway system, as well as bus maps for all five boroughs and an offline street map of Manhattan (which works underground). Note: while the iPhone/iPod touch version 2.0 includes the entire subway system, the Blackberry and Android versions include every stop in Manhattan but only some in Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx.

MyCityWay

Use with: iPhone, iPad, Android and Blackberry

Find yourself longing for the nearest wireless hotspot, craft beer bar or pharmacy with late-night delivery? MyCityWay combines urban reference apps and app platforms with important City info and its own user community to bring you a super-loaded City navigating tool.

WayFinder NYC

Use with: Android

This award-winning augmented reality app helps users identify the subway or PATH train stations that are closest to their current location. Using GPS and your phone's camera, WayFinder locates your position on any street and offers step-by-step directions to the nearest transit stops.

Top of the Rock

Use with: iPhone, iPad and iPod touch

The Top of the Rock app makes taking photos from one of NYC's most recognizable vantages a snap. Get postcard-esque pictures of the view, using special effects to mimic shots from years past. Options date back to 1933 (a time machine that does work!), and the app allows users to share and upload their images via social media outlets. It also serves as a high-tech pair of binoculars, digitally labeling notable landmarks in the distance like Central Park, Yankee Stadium, The Met and the George Washington Bridge. The app also includes "Shop & Eat" functionalities, a virtual reality guide to the top stores and restaurants around Rockefeller Center.
